INTRODUCTION

The 2026 Zambia General Elections provided an opportunity to assess the country's electoral and democratic processes and to identify areas requiring further strengthening. After the elections, several international, regional, and domestic Election Observation Missions (EOMs) issued preliminary statements highlighting key observations and areas for improvement.

Elections remain a cornerstone of democratic governance, providing citizens with an opportunity to exercise their political rights and participate in determining the leadership and direction of their country. The 2026 General Elections in Zambia were held against a backdrop of significant electoral and legal reforms and provided important experiences and lessons for further strengthening the country's electoral processes.

01

This Compendium brings together the preliminary recommendations arising from the African Union and Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa EOM (AU-COMESA), the Southern African Development Community EOM (SEOM), the Election Support Network of Southern Africa (ESN-SA), the Christian Churches Monitoring Group (CCMG) and the Zambia National Women's Lobby (ZNLW).

The European Union (EU), the International Conference on the Great Lakes Region (ICGLR), and the SADC Electoral Commissions Forum (SADC ECF) did not include preliminary recommendations in their statements and are therefore not reflected in the recommendations contained in this Compendium.

02

The Compendium consolidates the recommendations, providing a practical reference for electoral reform and democratic governance in Zambia. While the recommendations originate from different observation missions, they collectively identify areas where improvements can contribute to more transparent, inclusive, accountable, credible and resilient electoral processes.

The purpose of the Compendium is to support continued dialogue and reform beyond the electoral cycle. It encourages the Government of Zambia, the Electoral Commission of Zambia (ECZ), political parties, Parliament, civil society organisations, and other relevant stakeholders to consider and implement the recommendations within their respective mandates.

The Compendium is therefore intended not merely as a record of observations, but as a tool for advocacy, monitoring, and follow-up. It provides a basis for tracking progress in implementing electoral reforms and encourages stakeholders to sustain momentum and improvements ahead of future electoral processes. Effective implementation of these recommendations can strengthen electoral institutions, enhance public confidence in elections, protect political and electoral rights, and ultimately build stronger and more inclusive democratic institutions in Zambia.
